KOENIG & BAUER

Maximum energy efficiency through holistic monitoring

Rising energy costs, sustainability targets and strict legal requirements make energy a decisive competitive factor. The path to greater energy efficiency is a challenging one, but also a great opportunity to significantly reduce production costs. To achieve this, it is worth taking a close look at the energy requirements of your entire business – from production to building technology.

Capture energy data

VisuEnergy X enables the automated reading of meters, data loggers and sensors – scalable and expandable as desired with additional measuring devices or individual interfaces.

Comprehensive energy monitoring

Continuous monitoring of energy data and a look at specific energy users and historical consumption patterns shows where the greatest potential for savings lies.

Visualisation & key figure calculation

The graphical illustration of the energy data flows is carried out using a variety of pre-defined diagram types. The system also includes a dashboard builder for an easy creation of individualised analyses.

Reports & documentation

Extensive reporting options simplify documentation for customers and end users, as well as compliance with mandatory government reporting standards.
